

Storm May Clear Greenland Coast Of Ice Barriers

Whipping Wind May Shatter Ice Pact Enough for Ship of Supplies To Reach Base.

ARMY AIR OFFICIALS HAVE NOT LOST HOPE

Admiral Magruder Called Parley To Consider Abandonment of Attempt To Girdle Globe.

BY OTIS PEABODY SWIFT. Reykjavik, Iceland, August 8.—A terrific Arctic storm which is moving eastward from the west coast of Greenland may shatter the pack-ice which has entrapped the supply ship Gertrude Rask off Angmagssalik and permit the American army world fliers to continue their flight along the rearranged route.

The airman are determined to carry on, however, regardless of whether the pack-ice is scattered. A radiogram from the destroyer Milwaukee told of the storm which is whipping about the barren Greenland coasts. If the full force of the weather persists until the storm center has crossed the southern tip of Greenland it is likely that the pack ice which threatens to freeze the hopes of the fliers in its icy grip may be dissipated. If the Rask can free herself and make Angmagssalik the fliers will be able to land at that settlement, as it is believed that a bit of water exists between the ice fringe and the shore.

Travellers Voice Hope. Icelandic trawlers, who know ice and its habits as city folk know their neighbors, believe that the Rask has a good chance of reaching Angmagssalik.

The whole flight has assumed the aspect of an Arctic exploring expedition, with freezing temperatures and ice floes transcending all else in importance. If the Rask should fail to make harbor at Angmagssalik there remains the alternative of refueling the planes at sea halfway between here and Iqviut on the west coast of Greenland.

In that event the procedure would be to extend a far-flung line of cruisers and destroyers along the proposed route of the airman to supply daily weather reports. When a calm day appeared in prospect the fliers would take off from Reykjavik.

Alternative Hazardous. Either the Richmond or the Raleigh would supply the fliers with food and fuel. The designated ship would lower a motor sailing boat stocked with barrels of gasoline, oil and food. The planes would land in the lee of the mother ship and a line would be passed between the launch and the planes. This would be followed by a fuel line. The wind would blow the planes and the launch leeward, but the launch would act as an adequate sea anchor and prevent too great drifting.

This whole procedure is most hazardous, and if it is possible to escape exposing the planes and the fliers to the dangers involved they most certainly will be spared as the convoy commanders who are advising them are anxious to avoid a landing in mid-ocean.

Nearly all 13 of Reykjavik's policemen turned out Friday to protect Lieutenant Eric Nelson's plane when it was hauled upon the beach for overhauling. The amazed fisher-folk surrounded the almost unheard of contraption and stared their fill.

HERriot AND AIDE GOING HOME TODAY TO MEET CABINET

Premier and War Minister, Split on Ruhr Evacuation, To Consult French Ministry in Paris.

LONDON CONFERENCE WAITS UNTIL RETURN

French and Belgians Hold Out Upon Maintaining Nationals at Work on German Railways.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. London, August 8.—Premier Herriot, War Minister General Nollet and Finance Minister Clementel will go to Paris tomorrow afternoon for a cabinet conference and the negotiations of the international conference here will be virtually suspended until they return.

Action by the French cabinet was necessitated by the fact that the question of evacuation of the Ruhr is the chief obstacle to any final agreement of the conference, and also because M. Herriot and General Nollet are reported to be in disagreement on this important matter.

All Eyes on Paris. The French premier promises to return to the British capital Monday morning. Meantime, all eyes will be turned toward Paris, where, it is expected, M. Herriot will confer with the members of his cabinet regarding the final stand the French delegates should take on the Ruhr evacuation question and on the question of the maintenance of the Franco-Belgian railroads in the Rhineland system.

The French and Belgians both are holding out for maintaining their nationals on the German railways. The French also demand that they be assured the Germans will fill their orders for dyes and coke necessary to insure the future of the Alsatian steel and textile industries. These demands are affording further obstacles to an immediate agreement in London.

There will be no meeting of the "big fourteen" tomorrow, but the two committees will meet. Prime Minister MacDonald will go to Eastbourne for the weekend.

Private Conference Held. The real work of smoothing out the differences between the French and Germans is being done in private meetings rather than in conference sessions, and the efforts both sides have been making to retain as many weapons as possible for trading purposes have probably exaggerated their differences considerably.

Optimism is general in allied circles.

ATHENS WOMAN HURT BY TRUCK

Mrs. H. B. Ritchie Run Down by Sharp Turn of Machine as She Crosses Street.

Mrs. H. B. Ritchie, of Athens, suffered a broken foot early Friday night, when she was struck by a large truck as she crossed the street at Auburn avenue and Pryor street. The truck was driven by Charlie Wyatt, a negro, of 65 Leach street, who, officers stated, turned suddenly into Pryor street from Auburn avenue, making the turn too short. He was arrested on a charge of reckless driving. Mrs. Ritchie was treated in a nearby doctor's office.

Another accident report was filed at police headquarters later in the night. In a collision between the automobile in which he was riding and a car parked near the intersection of Washington and Rawson streets, Walter Johnson, negro, was hurled to the pavement and probably internally injured. He was treated at Grady hospital.

The third straight stockade sentence for a traffic violation since the beginning of the crusade was imposed in recorder's court Friday afternoon, when Richard Holt, 10, of 187-A Murray avenue, was given a 30-day sentence.

REHEARING DENIED IN FLOGGING CASE; MAN IS SENTENCED

Macon, Ga., August 8.—The court of appeals today denied a rehearing in the case of J. F. Alexander, convicted several months ago of assault and battery in connection with a series of floggings here. This means that he will have to serve time on the chain-gang unless the governor pardons him, lawyers said tonight. The sentence was six months on the gang, to be relieved of five months on payment of a fine of $500.

The arrest was one of several following activities of alleged members of the Ku Klux Klan. There have been no floggings since prosecutions began.

ONE NEGRO HELD IN TAXI MURDER

Police Believe Prisoner Was To Have Been Spy For Real Killer of Auto Driver.

Greensboro, N. C., August 8.—Ernest Dinkins, negro, arrested here today, is being held in the city jail as a material witness in connection with the killing of Charlie Gerwood, taxi driver, in his machine near Lexington Thursday night. The blood-stained death car was discovered parked here on a street near the business district at 2 o'clock this morning by patrolmen.

Dinkins, when arrested, had on his person a strip of paper bearing the license number. In a statement to the police it is claimed Dinkins said the number was given to him shortly after midnight this morning by John Leak, another negro. Leak, it is claimed, gave Dinkins the number, saying he had been in difficulty about a car bearing a corresponding number. Leak, it is said, left here on a south-bound train, telling Dinkins he would write soon giving an address. He then requested Dinkins, it is said, to answer on receipt of the address stating what developed concerning the car.

It is reported here tonight that Leak has been arrested in Charlotte. Will McClode, negro, arrested here as a suspect this morning, was released after he had been closely questioned.

Latest Flimflam Worker in Toils, Officers Assert

Anxious Wife of Supposed Prisoner Responsible for Arrest.

The originator of the very latest in the flimflam game in Atlanta—J. C. McEwing, 25, of a Marietta street address—is in the toils of the law at last, according to Atlanta detectives. McEwing's arrest was brought about by a woman, who is said to have been one of his victims.

The scheme, as described to the police, was a simple but effective one. The operator would appear at the home of an anxious wife, whose husband was late in coming home, or visit a mother who was worried over the absence of her son.

His story was that the missing man was in jail and that his bond amounted to so much. The bearer of the bad news would volunteer to carry the money to him. Later on husband or son would come home to be surprised with queries about his experience in jail.

Friday afternoon, Mrs. J. J. Borne, 704 Cherokee place, narrowly escaped the flimflammer's net. Her caller told her husband, a motor-man, had shot a negro, was in jail, and needed $20 at once. She did not have the money and telephoned relatives in Hapeville. Investigation disclosed the fact that Borne was busy at work, and had never been near a jail.

Police say that the flimflammer has made several hundred dollars out of his scheme. They are confident he is the same man who approached Mrs. Borne and others.

GEORGIA REVENUE BUREAU IS GIVEN $72,000 BY HOUSE

$5,000 Voted for Expenses and Maintenance of State Service Department Until August, 1925.

MILITARY DEPARTMENT APPROPRIATION IS CUT

Officers Who Seize Autos in Liquor Cases Must Make Reports Within Ten Days After Capture.

Working faster than at any previous time during the present session, the house of representatives Friday afternoon passed six appropriation measures in rapid order. These included bills to appropriate $5,000 to the state service bureau for expenses and maintenance until August, 1925; $20,000 for the department of public buildings and grounds; $10,000 to meet a deficiency at the state tuberculosis sanitarium at Alto; $10,000 additional for the state military department; a deficiency maintenance appropriation of $4,700 for the Tenth District A. and M. school, in Hancock county, and $72,000 for expenses and maintenance of the state revenue department until the end of 1925.

Appropriations Cut in Half. The service bureau bill originally called for $10,000, but the amount was reduced to $5,000 by amendment. This gives the department the same amount from August, 1924, to August, 1925, as that given by the state for the preceding 12 months. The $20,000 for public buildings and grounds was divided, $8,000 going to a deficiency in the maintenance fund, and $12,000 for necessary repairs to the state capital.

The Alto appropriation of $10,000 is to come from money collected under the state cigar and cigarette tax. This tax, as provided under the original bill, is to be used for payment of Confederate pensions, with the exception of $250,000 a year for the first two years, which is to go to the Alto sanitarium for new buildings. The bill passed Friday takes the $10,000 deficiency appropriation out of the current year's $250,000 for buildings. The appropriation for the state military department was reduced by amendment from $25,000 to $10,000, and the $72,000 for the revenue department is divided, $24,000 for the balance of 1924 and $48,000 for 1925. This is to be paid out of the 20 per cent.

GEORGIA SENATE CLEARS CALENDAR

Bill To Remove Pullman Surcharge Tax Is Passed Unanimously by Upper House.

The Georgia senate adjourned Friday for the last week-end recess of the 1924 session, with the announcement from President Carwell that the deck was clear, and that there were no bills on the calendar ready for consideration. This gives the upper house plenty of time in the last three days of the session to consider any bills which at present are in the hands of committees, or other measures which will come over from the house.

The senate, Friday, without a dissenting vote, passed the bill of Senator Grantham, of the 46th district, providing for removal of the Pullman surcharge tax. The bill is identical with a measure of Representative Bennett, of Dodge county, now pending in the house.

The bill of Senators Cason, of the first district; Miller, of the second district; and Armow, of the fourth district, fixing the rights and duties of the Coastal District Highway association, was passed without opposition. The measure affects the counties of Chatham, Liberty, McIntosh, Glynn, Camden and Bryan.

Consolidation Bill Called Out. On motion by Senator Beauhamp, the senate Friday withdrew from committee the bill providing for consolidation of city and county governments in counties of 31,000 population, had the bill read for the second time, and recommended it to the committee. A bill introduced by Senator Gillis providing for issuance of certificates of registration of ownership of automobiles, was passed with a committee amendment.

A measure by Senator Lankford, of the 15th district, providing that after December 20, 1924, no tax execution shall be levied on real estate within one year from date of execution, caused a flurry of debate. The favorable report of the committee was agreed to, 20 to 13, but on passage of the bill, the author found himself in a minority and moved that the bill be postponed.

Series of Storms Take Heavy Toll Of Life, Property

8 COLLEGE BOYS GIVE TESTIMONY

Campus Friends of Slayers Declare Loeb Lacked "Horse Sense" To Balance Intellect.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. Chicago, August 9.—A procession of eight college boys, finally giving way to Dr. Harold S. Hulbert, fourth of the defense's mental specialists, took the witness stand today before Judge John R. Caverly and gave evidence in support of the plea for mitigation in the sentencing of Nathan F. Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb, for the kidnapping and murdering of Robert Franks.

The university students, mostly friends of Loeb, testified as to their observation of the youth's peculiar mannerisms and mental mechanisms, as revealed to them on campus and in his fraternity house. They occupied the entire morning session, except for four minutes, when Dr. Robert Bruce Armstrong, of Charlevoix, Mich., gave evidence regarding a slight accident to Loeb in 1920.

Dr. Hulbert, going over the lives of the defendants on cr-ile days, concluded that Loeb "is mentally diseased" and had not reached his conclusions as to Leopold when court was adjourned until tomorrow, after he had been on the stand two hours.

Loeb Again Called Slayer. Dr. Hulbert corroborated the testimony by Dr. Bernard Glueck, of New York, that Loeb was the actual slayer of the Franks boy. Loeb said he struck the boy several times with a cold chisel, intending to stun him and strangle him later with the assistance of Leopold, but that the blows were sufficient to cause death, said Dr. Hulbert.

That Loeb had discussed the Franks murder with his mother, "getting quite a kick out of it," also was testified by the psychiatrist. He told how Loeb saw the funeral of his victim and "felt a bit uncomfortable but not remorseful" when he saw Bobby's boy friends carry his coffin from the Franks home.

Dr. Hulbert delved into the realm of prenatal influences in seeking causes for various defects that his thirteen examinations of the youth revealed to him. He testified he had learned that Leopold's mother suffered from a physical ailment before his birth, remained an invalid and died 17 years later, and that Loeb's mother, just before his birth, was sickly and also suffered from several acute infections.

Fantasies Began Early. Loeb, the witness testified, was backward physically during his babyhood, had a badly-formed heart, a subnormal temperature, retained three of his baby teeth, and at the age of 18 his voice still was changing. Leopold was slight in boyhood, suffered a serious gastric disorder, always had a skin disease, and was affected more than ordinarily by various diseases common to infancy and childhood, he said.

Both Leopold and Loeb early began to have fantasies and pictured themselves quite differently from the imaginary selves normal boys dream of, said the pathologist. Leopold's fantasies grew from the age of five, when he saw his brother in a soldier's uniform and dreamed of being in command of a huge body of men. That worked into a "king-slave" fantasy, stated the doctor, Leopold at times pictured himself as a king but 90 per cent of the time as a slave proper.

BOY BADLY HURT WHEN AMUSEMENT DEVICE IS BROKEN

James Walton, 16-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Walton, of 193 Curran street, was injured seriously Friday afternoon in a fall from "Grant stride," an amusement device at the waterworks playground.

Walton, with a number of playmates, was swinging on the apparatus, which suddenly broke, hurling him into a ditch more than forty feet away. He was treated at Grady hospital, where he is being kept under observation. Doctors fear he is injured internally.

VANDALS UPROOT $3,000 TOBACCO CROP IN KENTUCKY

Glasgow, Ky., August 8.—Footprints in a devastated tobacco field today told the story of numerous men who walked between rows of virtuously matured tobacco on the farm of John Smith, in Metcalf county shortly after midnight and pulled a $3,000 crop up by the roots.

Tracks indicated that the men walked along the field pulling tobacco with each hand. The crop covers eight acres and was not pulled until after midnight, according to information received here. Nearly all of it was destroyed.

Twelve Persons Known To Be Dead as Result of Tornadoes During Last 24 Hours.

HEAVY DAMAGE DONE TO GROWING CROPS

Privation and Misery Follow Close on Heels of Storms as Mud Roads Block Relief.

Chicago, August 8.—Death, suffering and destruction have attended a series of tornadoes and electrical storms, accompanied by drenching downpours of rain, that are sweeping sections of the middle west and northwest.

At least 12 persons are reported to have lost their lives during the last 24 hours, according to telegraphic and wireless reports received here. Seven of them died in Minnesota and Wisconsin. The states which appear to be storm-ravaged are Illinois, Wisconsin, Iowa, Minnesota, Indiana, Missouri and Kansas.

Late Friday the storm area had assumed the shape of dumb-bell on the weather map, according to weather bureau headquarters here. One end rested in the vicinity of Kansas City and the other in the area near St. Paul.

55-Mile Wind Hits Chicago. A 55-mile-an-hour wind struck Chicago Friday afternoon, blowing down trees, unroofing small buildings, and making it impossible for pedestrians to stand up in some parts of the city and its suburbs.

Rain fell in torrents and many of the principal streets speedily became impassable. The thunder and lightning were terrific and reports of lightning striking forty-six buildings, most of them on the city's outskirts, had been turned in at fire headquarters by nightfall.

Camp Grant, at Rockford, Ill., was turned into a combination miniature lake and a sea of mud. The camp, in readiness for the arrival of the 37th division, Illinois national guard, was badly damaged. Buildings were unroofed and tents blown down.

Black River Falls, Bloomer, Case and New Auburn, Wis., reported loss of life and property damage. Houses are down, crops are destroyed and many are reported homeless.

Communications Broken. From other sections of Wisconsin came reports of privation, suffering and misery caused by the storms. In lowlands many farmers have been driven from their homes by the sudden rise of stream.

Only fragmentary reports are reaching Chicago from the storm swept areas. Telegraph and telephone companies report wires down for miles through some of the ravaged regions. In many sections of Illinois, Iowa and Missouri, roads are impassable. It is feared that the death toll will mount as news from the stricken communities arrives. Railroad traffic has been halted in some of the storm-swept sections because bridges have been washed out and in some places water covers the tracks.

Rivers and creeks throughout the storm area are rising and are out of their banks in many places. Flood warnings are being sent out by wireless.

Ballard Explains State Law With Regard to School Books

The list of school books under the Yeomans law, recently passed in the legislature, as well as the list of state-adopted books, should have been received by all superintendents of schools during the first week of August, according to State Superintendent of Schools N. H. Ballard.

In the Georgia school code are the regulations governing school books, both as to state adoption and the Yeomans law, according to the department of education head, and school superintendents are urged to read carefully the act which was passed last year that combines certain provisions of the Yeomans law and the uniform law. Further discussing this question, the following is given out by the state superintendent:

Statement of Ballard.

"In other words, it gives whatever right any district may have under the Yeomans law to all districts which must conform to the uniform law. By the enactment of the new law, all boards of education are required to have on hand a sufficient supply of books five days before the opening of school. On all state-adopted books there are two prices—wholesale and retail. The wholesale is the Yeomans price; the retail is the state-adopted price. Boards of education must, therefore, conform to the Yeomans price. They buy from the publishers at wholesale and either they themselves, or through their authorized agent, sell at not more than 15 per cent above this price.

"If the board has a dealer, they must require a bond to protect the board from loss because the board is responsible to the publisher for the books purchased by this dealer. The board is not responsible for dealers acting under the state uniform law and selling at retail prices, for they are the dealers of the publishers and are responsible to the publishers alone.

Cites Typical Case.

"Take, for example, Evans' First Lessons in Georgia History—a state-adopted book, the retail price of which is 80 cents, and the wholesale price is 63 cents. Boards of education, or their authorized dealers would order this book from the publisher and it would be billed at 63 cents. They may resell it at not more than 72 cents. If the dealer of the publisher is handling the book (and boards have a right to require them to have dealers in each county), he will order the book from the publisher, who will bill it at 80 cents and deliver it freight prepaid, and at a discount of 10 per cent. This makes 72 cents the publisher's dealer pays for the book, and he cannot sell for more than 80 cents. In other words, the publisher's dealer gives for the book practically the same price the board's authorized dealer would sell it to the children at retail. The publisher is also required to deliver free of all charge any book to anyone in the state at the retail price.

No State Adoption on Civics.

"No book on civics was adopted by the state board. This is due to the fact that the law requires the state superintendent to prepare a civics for Georgia and print it under competitive bids. The superintendent is not at this time able to present a satisfactory book, and for the present may use the book prescribed under the old adoption, or some other satisfactory civics selected from the Yeomans list. Both books of the Sanford grammar have been revised, and the revised edition is the adopted book, but it is understood that Book I has a few changes that either edition may be used in the same class. Book II has been completely revised and the two editions cannot be used together.

Makes Suggestion.

"Since the prices of the newly-adopted books are so very high, and since the exchange prices are almost nothing, and since many communities would have great difficulty in supplying new books for their children, I wish to suggest, not authorizing, the adoption of the old books in such schools as the board and superintendent deem advisable on account of the difficulty in supplying new books to all of the children of the school."

Book II has been completely revised and the two editions cannot be used together.

The one exception to the use of the state-adopted books is where counties, cities, or districts levy a local tax sufficient to run the schools eight months—these need not conform to the Yeomans law.

Since the prices of the newly-adopted books are so very high, and since the exchange prices are almost nothing, and since many communities would have great difficulty in supplying new books for their children, I wish to suggest, not authorizing, the adoption of the old books in such schools as the board and superintendent deem advisable on account of the difficulty in supplying new books to all of the children of the school."

STORM DAMAGES RETAINING WALLS OF TWO SCHOOLS

Retaining walls behind the Peoples Street and the Tenth Street schools were undermined and partially washed away by the torrential rain of Thursday, it was reported to the school department Friday.

Immediate steps to repair the damage are to be taken by the business office and an estimate of costs submitted to the board of education at its session next Tuesday.

About fifty feet of the rubble masonry wall at Peoples Street school was completely washed out. The entire length of the Tenth street reinforced concrete wall, about 150 feet, was undermined.

JUDGE JOHN HEARD HONORED BY REUNION

On the occasion of his eighty-ninth birthday, Judge John S. Heard was honored Thursday afternoon by the twenty-ninth annual reunion of the Heard family, at his home on Heard Ferry road.

Prominent speakers were Judge L. F. McClelland, of the municipal court; Solicitor General John A. Boykin, Solicitor Roy Dorsey, Edwin F. Johnson, chairman of the Fulton county commission; W. H. Abbott, tax receiver, and Rev. William Waterhouse.

HARRIS WILL ATTEND CEREMONY FOR DAVIS

Senator W. J. Harris left Friday night for Clarksburg, W. Va., to attend notification ceremonies for John W. Davis, democratic nominee for president, on Monday. Senator Harris was invited by the democratic national committee and the local Clarksburg committee in charge of the ceremonies, and Mr. Davis requested the Georgia senator to confer with him about plans for the national campaign.

Senator Harris will return to Georgia next week, going by Washington, D. C., to confer with government officials on several departmental matters. He said he would discuss with General Fries, of the chemical warfare service, plans for testing the use of poison gas in fighting boll weevils at the Georgia experiment station, at Griffin. This work is provided under an appropriation of $25,000 obtained by Senator Harris at the recent session of congress. He also will confer with officials of the department of agriculture as to progress of experiments to produce calcium arsenate at cheaper prices.

Major General Peter C. Harris who served as adjutant general of the army in the world war, returned to Washington with his brother, Senator Harris. General Harris has spent a month in Georgia with relatives at Cedartown, Athens and Atlanta.

Coleman and Prater And Ku Klux Named In Suit for $1,084.96

Suit for $1,084.96 against Coleman and Prater, a partnership composed of F. P. Coleman and Robert E. Prater, and the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, Inc., for commission and interest on insurance which, under an alleged agreement of May 23, should have been written during the next five years on Klan property on the Roswell road, was filed by the Security Loan and Trust company in the Fulton superior court Friday.

The petitioners declare that they were legal agents for writing insurance on the property for the next five years, under the agreement by Coleman and Prater and the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan. They set forth in the petition that following transfer of entire ownership of the property by Coleman and Prater to the Klan, that an insurance policy was canceled at a loss of $163.00 to the petitioners. It is declared that the brick building now located on the property should be insured for $25,000, which, at $2.95 a hundred, would have amounted to $737.50 in the next five years. They pray also for interest on the total amount from July 10, The Security Loan and Trust company is represented by McElreath & Scott.

Midnight Chase Ends In Court; Conyers Man Assessed Heavy Fine

Willie Sharp, well-known resident of Conyers, Ga., was fined $500 Friday morning in the court of Judge Walter Duler, in DeKalb county, when he was charged with transportation of liquor following his arrest Thursday night. He paid the fine, which was imposed by Judge Duler as an alternative to a year on the chain gang.

Sharp was arrested after a midnight chase which ended almost in front of the DeKalb county courthouse when he was caught by County Policemen Henderson and Rogers, and 43 gallons of liquor was found hidden in his automobile. Suspensions of the officers were aroused when the handsomer roadster sped out from Ingleside on the Covington road.

Sharp, who is 30 years old, is a son of L. A. Sharp, prominent Conyers business man and church worker.

$107,980 BID MADE TO ERECT CLUBHOUSE

With a low bid of $107,980 for construction of the new Druid Hills Golf club house, the Barge-Thompson company is expected to be awarded the contract. Architects' plans call for exact reproduction of the old building, which was destroyed by fire.

CLAUDE N. BENNETT IN ATLANTA ON VISIT

Claude N. Bennett, president of the congressional information bureau, at Washington, and a former Atlanta, is in Atlanta on a short visit. Mr. Bennett says that John W. Davis, democratic nominee, stands an excellent chance to win in the presidential race this year.

STATE PORT WRONGLY
CREDITED TO SAVANNAH

Inadvertently, The Constitution Friday morning referred to the state port bill, introduced by Senator Cannon, passed by the senate and favorably reported by the house committee on constitutional amendments, as the "Savannah state port bill." This is incorrect, as the bill does not provide that the proposed state port and terminals shall be located at Savannah, but leaves the location to be decided by vote later.

Brunswick, as well as Savannah, is seeking the designation of "state port," and after publication of the story Friday, Representative Mann of Glynn county—in which Brunswick is located—was flooded with telegrams and long-distance telephone calls inquiring as to the status of the bill.

Representative W. R. Jones, chairman of the house committee on constitutional amendments, was forced to hasten the deciding vote on the measure in the committee meeting Thursday. He voted favorably on the bill, the final record standing 8 to 7 for its passage. Chairman Jones, however, explained Friday he only voted as he felt because he did not think one man in committee should block the measure from the floor of the house. However, when it reaches the floor, he has announced he will oppose it. Mr. Jones also pointed out that an identical bill, introduced in the house, had been favorably reported in committee at a regular meeting, with a larger attendance, earlier in the session, and that this fact also influenced him in casting his favorable vote Thursday.

PLANS DISCUSSED
FOR ORGANIZING
BUSINESS CLUBS

Plans for organization of clubs in at least five Georgia cities were discussed by the Atlanta division of the American Business Club at its regular meeting Friday in the Peacock cafe.

Macon, Augusta, Griffin, Rome and Athens were tentatively selected as sites for new clubs, and Harry Steinbrebe was chosen director of the expansion program, which will begin actively this fall. Russell Baker, president of the club, presided.

Wanted: People
With Brains

If you saw that advertisement in a newspaper, could you qualify? If so, listen to this:

Every man admits that he should secure life and accident insurance for the protection of his wife and babies or those dependent upon him. And every man admits that the insurance that is most efficient and cheapest is the kind he wants.

All of which leads to the statement that Constitution Insurance has supplied the needs of hundreds of wise and thoughtful men and women—and should supply yours. Here's a case in point:

Mary Jane Warlick was injured in an automobile accident during the month of May, from which accident she was totally disabled for four weeks.

Miss Warlick was the holder of a $10,000 Constitution Travel and Pedestrian Accident Insurance policy, which cost her only $1 yearly in addition to the regular subscription rates on her Daily and Sunday Constitution. It provides payment of $1,000 in case of death resulting from certain specified accidents, varying sums for permanent injuries, and $10 weekly indemnity for disability.

Under the provisions of her policy, Miss Warlick was paid the sum of $40.

Another great protective opportunity presented Constitution readers lies in the $500 Group Read Life Insurance policy—the only straight life offer made by an Atlanta newspaper—which costs only 15 or 20 cents a week (depending on the risk) in addition to the regular Constitution subscription rates. This policy provides payment of $500 in case of death from any cause, and it remains in force as long as payments on both the policy and The Constitution subscription are maintained.

If you have the welfare of your loved ones at heart, both these great offers should appeal to you. Think it over. Then visit, phone or write The Constitution's insurance department for full particulars.

Lists Will Close at O'Clock Today for Beauty Tourney Entrants;
Names of Preliminary Winners Will Be Published Sunday Morning

Up to 1 O'Clock Will Have Fair Chance To Capture Title.

Entries in The Constitution's 1924 tournament to select "Miss Atlanta," official representative of this city at the Atlantic City National Beauty Tournament nearly next month, close at 1 o'clock this afternoon.

Nearly 500 pretty Atlanta girls are applicants for the title of the city's reigning beauty, and it is expected that eleven-hour entries today will bring the grand total of entries above the 500 mark.

The tournament management Friday night announced that, in line with its oft-repeated desire to have every pretty girl in the city enter in order that the winner may truly deserve her title, staff photographers of The Constitution will be in the studio on the sixth floor of The Constitution building until 1 o'clock this afternoon in order to photograph entrants.

"1 O'Clock Is Last Chance." "Every girl who enters up to 1 o'clock this afternoon will have a fair and equal chance to be one of the preliminary winners who will go before the judges at the Biltmore next week," it was stated. "The tourney closes promptly at 1 o'clock today, however, and no entries will be accepted after that time."

Meanwhile, officials of the tournament were speeding the work of selecting preliminary winners who will be allowed to appear before the judges. "By working night and day," the management announced, "the narrowing-down process has progressed with gratifying speed. However, considerably more than 35 girls are still being considered. In view of the fact that still others who deserve to be among the first winners may enter today, it is probable that more than 35 will be named to appear before the judges."

May Name Forty Girls. "It now appears that approximately 40 girls will be named as preliminary winners for the season," it was stated. "The tourney closes promptly at 1 o'clock today, however, and no entries will be accepted after that time."

Numerous entries were received Friday, and as was the case Thursday, one of the entrants has been placed on the list of preliminary winners. This is the second last-minute entry to win a place in the list of first winners.

ADAMS IS DEMOCRATIC NOMINEE IN COLORADO

Denver, Colo., August 8.—Senator Alva B. Adams today was designated as a candidate for the democratic nomination for the seat now held by Senator Lawrence C. Phipps. His designation was by acclamation. Unless some one files a petition, Senator Adams will be unopposed in the democratic primary in September. Senator Phipps is unopposed in the republican primary.

COMMITTEE NAMED ON SALARY RAISES

All salary increased proposed for next year are to be reviewed by a special subcommittee, composed of Alderman J. R. Bachman, Alderman J. B. Duval and Councilman J. Allen Couch, it was voted by the finance committee Friday afternoon.

Proposed general increases for all Carnegie library executives, for clerical employees of the building inspectors and police departments, and for assistant chiefs in the fire department were referred to the subcommittee. On motion of Alderman Claude E. Buchanan the committee was instructed to study not only the city's prospective financial condition for next year but the general average of salaries paid to city employees in all departments before submitting its recommendations.

"I want to have this committee as going on record in favor of equal pay for equal work in all departments," the alderman stated.

Alderman Oscar Williamson proposed increases for the seven assistant fire chiefs of $15 a month each. The library board informally recommended increases from $10 to $25 a month for library executives. Building Inspector C. Bowen and Police Committeeman J. A. Beall proposed the increases for clerical help in their respective departments.

M'DONOUGH BRIDGE WORK IS WAITING ON COUNTY ACTION

Announcement that work on the new McDonough road bridge would begin as soon as the county commissioners formally appropriate $11,500 to the project, was made Friday by Mayor Walter A. Sims upon receipt from R. B. Pegram, vice president of the Southern railway, of the railway company's voucher for $10,000, its share of the cost of the improvement.

The Georgia Railway and Power company paid its promised $4,500 to the city two weeks ago. The city council appropriation of $20,000 has been set aside for the work. County commissioners have agreed to contribute $11,500 in money and labor and material for grading and repaving the approaches. A formal resolution directing the treasurer to pay the money to the city is required now before Mayor Sims can sign the contract for $43,000 with Davis Construction company, approved two weeks ago by city council after competitive bids had been received.

CITY WILL HELP TO REBUILD HOME FOR AGED WOMEN

A special appropriation of $1,000 to be paid by the city this year for rebuilding the old woman's home, and a recommendation that an additional $8,000 be appropriated next year were voted by the city council finance committee Friday afternoon on motion of Alderman Claude E. Buchanan.

Fulton county commissioners have appropriated money and materials to the value of $65,000, it was stated, but the city has not sufficient funds this year to make a larger appropriation than $1,000. Exhaustion both of sewer and water main extension funds was reported to the committee and the chairman and comptroller instructed to "find" $3,000 for sewers and $28,000 for water mains.

AMNESIA VICTIM
RECOVERS; TELLS
POLICE HER NAME

Recovering from several hours' loss of memory, the young woman who was carried to police station just before midnight Thursday Friday morning was able to tell the matron her name and explain that she was a sufferer from amnesia.

She was Mrs. Kathleen Barnes, wife of J. W. Barnes, 113 Weatherly street. She was seated upon a bench at Faith's crossing, clad only in her night clothes, when found by Policemen Caldwell and Buchanan. She was unable to explain who she was or tell where she lived.

METHODISTS APPROVE
OFFER FOR HOSPITAL

Montgomery, Ala., August 8.—The general hospital board of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, approved the offer of Huntington, Va., on $200,000 and a five-acre tract if the board will erect a hospital there, when the board met here today.

American Legion
Offers Support
To Police Force

Pledging moral support to the Atlanta police department in its work of maintaining law and order, and offering active assistance if ever it should be needed, Argonne post No. 1, American Legion, was host to members of the city police force at its regular meeting Friday night in the Chamber of Commerce building.

Asa W. Candler, Georgia member of the legion national executive committee, was the principal speaker, commending the police department on its work in spite of what he termed "annoying handicaps."

Handicaps Charged. "The police force of Atlanta has been constantly hampered by interference of petty politicians, who have contrived time and again to place it in a bad light before the general public," he said. "We are proud of our force, and we want you to feel that we are behind you in your efforts to enforce the laws of the community."

"If it ever becomes necessary for you to have help in maintaining law and order, the American Legion is the first organization you should call. The Argonne post has more than 1,200 members, trained, organized, and capable of meeting any emergency that may arise."

"With the confidence we have in your ability," Mr. Candler concluded, "we do not think you will need that assistance. But we should like to have you know that we stand as an ever-ready reserve upon which you may draw at will. And above all, we want you to know that we are your friends."

Holcombe Thanks Legion. Replying in behalf of the police department, Captain A. J. Holcombe, chief of the detective bureau, thanked the legion for its kindly attitude and offer of assistance. "We have no objection to the alleged interference," he made a strong plea to the citizens of Atlanta to recognize the work of the police in protecting life and property, and to cooperate with the force for the best interests of all.

Captain Holcombe also called attention to the fact that the police do not make the laws and have no choice about enforcing them. "If a law is bad, it should be repealed," he said, but as long as it remains on the books it must be enforced.

J. B. Conyers, post commander, presided and introduced the speakers. "The purpose of the gathering," he stated, "was to let the police department know that we believe in the members and stand behind them in whatever they do."

"RED" COTTEEN HELD FOR TENNESSEE TRIAL

J. B. Cotten, alias "Red" Cotten, who was arrested in Murray county Thursday in connection with counterfeiting of revenue stamps in Chattanooga, was committed to the Fulton county jail Friday after being brought before United States Commissioner John C. Fritts of Rome. He was being held in default of $1,000 bond late Friday night pending hearing before United States District Judge Samuel H. Sibley today.

Cotten, who was arrested by R. P. Hufstetter, United States deputy marshal, at the request of the Atlanta secret service bureau, may be transferred to the jurisdiction of the federal district courts of eastern Tennessee. Judge Sibley will be asked to sign the order to that effect today.

POTTS-PITTS WEDDING
HELD AT HUNTSVILLE

Huntsville, Ala., August 8.—(Special.)—The marriage of Miss Mable Potts, daughter of L. L. Potts, of this city, to Thomas L. Pitts, of Louisville, Ky., was solemnized Wednesday morning in the East Holmes Street Methodist church, Rev. L. Carlton performing the ceremony in the presence of a large number of friends. Mrs. J. D. Champion and Thomas A. Hood, soloist, furnished an appropriate musical program. Mr. Pitts and bride departed immediately after the ceremony by automobile for Bell Mine for a visit with relatives, after which they will go to Louisville to reside.

2 DOTHAN LABORERS
DIE IN ACCIDENTS

Dothan, Ala., August 8.—Leo Godwin, 24, laborer at Chalkers' Bluff, near Hartford, Ala., where the Dothan Hydro Electric plant is being constructed, was killed this morning when a hose nozzle fell from the railroad trestle and struck him on the head. Last Tuesday, Gus Tew, another workman on the same project, was killed in a similar accident.

$14,000 NET SAVINGS
MADE ON HIGH SCHOOL

A net saving of $14,000 to the city on the contract price of $484,000 on the new Henry W. Grady High School for Boys was announced Friday by C. J. Starnell, auditor for A. Ten Eyck Brown, supervising architect. This sum will be turned back to the school treasury to be applied to the girls' high school or negro high school buildings and release a similar amount of current revenues appropriated to them by this board this year.

The new boys' high school is ready for occupancy now. Mr. Starnell stated, and all details of the contract will be ready for formal closing by the time Mr. Brown returns from Europe in October. Mr. Brown left Atlanta Wednesday for his European tour.

SURVEYS ARE STARTED ON HIGHWAY PROJECTS

Huntsville, Ala., August 8.—(Special.)—Surveys for the first of three highway projects to be undertaken in Madison county by the state highway commission, following the appropriation that was promised a delegation from this city about a month ago, began Wednesday on Big Cove mountain. E. F. Boyd, state highway engineer, and a corps of surveyors will locate the best available route between Huntsville and the top of the mountain, where the new link of permanent highway will connect with an asphalt road being built from the top of the mountain to the Big Cove region.

This road will go to the Marshall county line, and will be a link in both the Florida short route and the Lee transcontinental highway. After this is finished, Meridianville and Athens pikes will be surveyed. All construction work will be done this fall, it is stated.

Now we know that the only way to get rid of foot burning, agony inflammation and soreness is to use a remedy that is made especially for joint troubles and goes right straight to the joints, ligaments and tendons—right where the trouble starts.

Such a remedy there is and millions know about it—they know that when you rub Joint-Ease over any joint for just one minute that it soaks right through the skin and flesh and goes direct straight to the joint, tendons and ligaments—quick.

And if you rub this wonderful stainless emollient on your sore, burning, tired, inflamed and aching feet tonight, you'll see it quickly disappear on its errand of helpfulness—right in to where the trouble is.

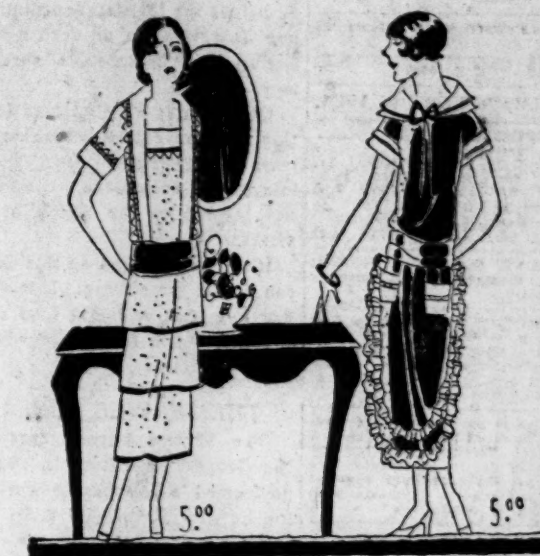

And if your feet are very sore—so inflamed that you cannot walk without agony, rub it on two or three times between supper and bedtime—your feet will be much better—perhaps all better in the morning.

Try this new and sensible way to get rid of all foot agony. Get a tube of Joint-Ease today. It costs but 60 cents and bears in mind—when Joint-Ease gets in foot soreness gets right out.—(adv.)

Now we know that the only way to get rid of foot burning, agony inflammation and soreness is to use a remedy that is made especially for joint troubles and goes right straight to the joints, ligaments and tendons—right where the trouble starts.

FINALLY, BRETHREN, whatever things are true, whatever things are honest, whatever things are pure, whatever things are lovely, whatever things are of good report; if there be any virtue, and if there be any praise, think on these things.—Philippians 4:8.

ONE BY ONE THEY FALL.

One by one the democratic irreconcilables of the United States senate, who obstructed and otherwise harassed the war policy of the late President Woodrow Wilson, have fallen before the votes of their constituents.

The first to fall was Vardaman, of Mississippi, who went down to defeat in the fall of 1918, and has not been able to get another foothold into the politics of the state.

The last to fall was Senator John K. Shields, of Tennessee, veteran member, and for years chief justice of the supreme court of his state.

In Thursday's primary for the nomination General L. D. Tyson, of Knoxville, a consistent Wilson democrat, led Senator Shields by a large plurality, after a vigorous and hard-fought campaign in which the Wilson issue was made predominant by Tyson's campaign committee.

To every democratic voter in Tennessee the following letter from the late President Wilson, written less than one year ago, only shortly before his death, and literally from his death-chamber, was sent:

"Woodrow Wilson, Washington, D. C., 28th August, 1922.

"My dear Mr. Furlow: In reply to your letter of August twenty-fifth, I do not feel at liberty to say more than this: That I regret that Mr. Shields during my administration as one of the least trustworthy of my professed supporters.

"Thanking you for the friendship so generously extended by your letters, cordially and sincerely yours. (Signed) WOODROW WILSON."

This letter was read from every stump and printed in every newspaper. It sealed the fate of the great lawyer, but insurgent senator, whom the people of Tennessee at one time thought unbreakable.

General Tyson made the following printed and effective reference to Senator Shields, and his characterization as one of the "least trustworthy" by Mr. Wilson:

"In the supreme hour of trial of the greatest man in the world, and the head and front of the democratic party in the nation, a man who had led the world to victory in the greatest war of all times, we had the insupportable humiliation of having a senator from rock-ribbed democratic Tennessee, who could not say enough in Wilson's praise when Shields was a candidate, go in with Lodge and the republican party to ruin the great peace treaty which had been negotiated by this great democratic president. The result of which was to send Woodrow Wilson to his grave, and end in the utter defeat of the democratic party at the polls in the presidential election of 1920, for which result Senator Shields has never expressed regret."

That, with the Wilson letter, was sufficient. Not only did Tennessee democrats record a stinging rebuke to Senator Shields, but in the great vote given to General Tyson record also an unmistakable voice from the international peace policies of the late war president.

Only one remains, and he was selected to the senate notoriously by the German-republican vote in Missouri. And it is small consolation, for when Senator Reed dared to become a candidate for the democratic nomination for president, the democrats of his own state overwhelmingly repudiated him.

THE ANTI-FEE BILLS.

If the Fulton county anti-fee bills should not pass at this session of the general assembly, the members representing this county in the house and senate will be charged with a terrible responsibility.

These measures are overwhelmingly indorsed by the people at the ballot box and they are not prepared to hear explanations as to why any of these bills may be lost in the closing shuffle.

What they want, and what they have a right to expect, is that every one of these bills pass, and if they are lost somebody will have a merry time explaining the reason why.

THE SURCHARGE MATTER.

The Georgia senate yesterday by a large majority passed an anti-Pullman surcharge bill, and a similar measure is now before the house with a favorable report.

It is important that action be taken before the legislature adjourns to put Georgia again on record as opposing this inexcusable surcharge levy.

Other states have enacted legislation that prevents this surcharge, at least in intra-state traffic, and the interstate commerce commission has yielded to the action of such states.

If other states can do this Georgia can do the same thing. It is at least worth a trial, and that trial can be obtained if the legislature will take adequate action.

THE SERVICE BUREAU.

The Service bureau created by the Georgia legislature in 1923 has performed a remarkable work during its first and organization year.

The report of Director Bloodworth, recently made to the governor, shows that the bureau has been most active in helping Georgia service men who were entitled to rights and benefits under the federal laws, but who had not been able to make the proper contact with the United States Veterans' bureau in getting their claims adjusted, or in getting the recognition due and awaiting them, but for the lack of information as to proper procedure.

The bureau has served as a source of information, a liaison, and a legal advisory department for former soldiers from this state, and its work has been of potential value and of deep human interest.

Twenty-six states maintain such bureaus. Not one of them, however, is maintained with such low appropriation as Georgia's bureau is maintained.

On account of new federal laws, revising adjusted compensations, and others pending, including the so-called bonus bill, the Georgia bureau will be called on to do a volume of work that will be practically impossible under the present limited resources allowed it.

It was recommended that the appropriation during the coming year be increased from $5,000 to $10,000—not for increase of salaries, but for increase of equipment and clerical necessities—but as amended and passed by the house yesterday the bill again carries a $5,000 appropriation.

The bill having passed one branch, it is earnestly desired that it may not be caught in the closing rush. This is legislation for the service men of real, constructive value for them, and surely Georgia will not fail to do her duty in this matter.

TONE OF THE MARKETS.

The week in the stock market has been one of quite heavy realizing throughout the list, though the market has been comparatively dull on the decline, said by many to be a sign that no extended reactions were in sight. In fact, there has been considerable support evident this week, the offerings being readily absorbed in practically all lines.

Rails have been the one bright feature of the week for the bulls of the stock market, a number of the carriers touching new high marks. At the same time the leading motors have shown considerable strength, with profit-taking in many other lines. Good buying is reported in General Motors, Mack Truck and Studebaker.

Steel has been noticeably quiet during the last day or two, speculators no doubt suspending operations along this line until after the unfilled tonnage report. It has been estimated that this report will show considerably more unfilled orders than the preceding report. Should the report come out this way, it would no doubt exert a bullish effect on steel and industrials.

The consensus of opinion is that higher prices are yet to be seen in the market, reflecting a decided improvement in the business and industrial situation of the country.

The most significant of the week, perhaps, is the reduction of the federal reserve bank rate of the New York district to three per cent.

(Jessie Stratford in the Eldorado Times.)

The divorce trial was concluded at 11 o'clock a. m. and the judge had reserved his decision until afternoon. The husband, plaintiff in the case—may have experienced a wave of homesickness, for at 11:20 his wife, who had been too stunned to contest, was engaged to see him come into the house. He was told that she had come to shave and comb her hair. As he left he asked, "What shall I bring home for luncheon?" "Nothing," she exclaimed, but at 12 he was back, as he had been for 25 years, with a package of pork chops and a loaf of bread. She prepared the meal and he ate it. They shared their first luncheon together in weeks. Then he went to the court house to see if the divorce had been granted. It had.

GOLF AND LIFE.

I consider golf one of the finest games in existence. In the first place it takes you out into the open—fields, hills, valleys, and around patches of towering trees that seem to look down upon you as you play.

Then there is the clean air and the fresh breeze. But best of all, the delightful companionship.

Golf brings out character in a better way than almost any game I know of. Play golf with a man or woman if you want to find them out.

If you play straight you get into no trouble. That's the way it is in life. If you get into trouble, keep a cool head and play out carefully and keep your nerve. Never lose your temper. That's the way to do it.

Remember this: The offender you get into trouble and play out smoothly is the better player you finally become.

Never blame your clubs or your tools. I have a pair of clubs given me by my fine friend Eddie Guest. They were selected by our mutual friend Donald Ross, who was one of the finest sports and gentlemen I have ever known. But find as the clubs are, and much as they mean to me, I play no better with them because of what they are.

Clubs and tools are merely clubs and tools. Perfection in golf comes only through long and tedious practice and through using your head.

The game will make any man a better man if he will let it. It will better his health, clear his brain, steady his nerve and train his temper. The last is a great accomplishment and well worth the entire cost of the game.

Every city and community should invest in a golf course for the benefit of its people.

Expense becomes an investment just the minute that it makes better men and women. (Copyright, 1924, for The Constitution.)

BITS OF NEW YORK LIFE

BY O. O. MINTYRE

New York, August 8.—The beautiful young ladies who embellish the de-dah dress-making establishments with their loveliness are asking for more money. They have not organized for strike, but several beautiful creatures have walked out in a pet. The dressmaking is a business of scouting grounds for theatrical purposes. Mannequins must be tall, graceful and have the gift of knowing how to wear the creations that are sipped over to New York from the Rue de la Paix.

They must don dress after dress for Mrs. Newburgh and a score of the raised platform, turn this way and that, stand on their feet for hour after hour while a 250-pound prospective customer of the dressmaker really look like the model.

Their hours are from nine until six in the evening. Of course, they do not have to buy their luncheon unless they desire for there are dressmaking Johnnies just as eager as those at the stage door to carry them away to the best midtown cafes.

Some of the most famous beauties of the New York stage began their careers as strutting mannikins. Several, too, have married millionaires and now live in marble palaces along the Hudson.

In the salons they are known by single names such as Diana, Hildegarde, Dolores and Gwendolyn. They must pay attention to style aside from the gorgeous frocks they wear. Their coiffure must be true to the mode, their complexion must be perfect and their manicuring done in the latest fashion. It is their job to be up to the minute in every detail.

Some of the mannikins make $100 a week, but they have had much experience. The average salary is about $50 a week. The girls think they deserve $75 and some are making that amount and working about four hours a day.

Somebody better stop kicking my hat around. In the largest movie theater in the world I sat on the aisle to the left of the house. After the close of the program I missed the tid. Three ushers, an assistant house manager and a sweeper joined the search. Three hours later they reported by telephone it had been found in an alleyway on the right side of the theater. It was returned to me by special messenger and at the moment graces refuse can. A good hat too. Or was.

Incidentally there were some interesting articles in the lost and found room of this theater. Here is the day's find of lost articles: two novels, a silver cigarette case, three fur pieces, seven lead pencils, a purse containing $17, a railroad ticket to Chicago, several waiting tickets, a raincoat, a watchchain, two leather-bound memorandum books, a roll of sheet music, a stickpin, six yards of silk, and a pocket-knife. But evidently this was the only loser of a hat. I would be.

In the same theater there is a 75-piece orchestra—I counted them while they were rendering one of those blatant Wagnerian things. Three men man a row of six kettle drums and large and small cymbals. The fellow in charge of the pair of cymbals as big as a wash boiler thrilled the audience only had to clasp his hands together once but, five minutes before he was ready with the cymbals poised. At the signal from the conductor he gave them a resounding crash and looked out at the audience as Sousa does after finishing a march. One can imagine him going home to his wife and saying, "Well, dear, your little hubby certainly clapped a mean cymbal today."

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN.

Lenin's Body and The False Dimitri.

Russian chemists have accomplished something extraordinary. They have embalmed a whole human body and made it possible to preserve that body without air-tight chambers or tightly-wrapped bandages like the ancient Egyptians were wont to do. Nicolai Lenin has been placed on view in a crypt under the Red Square in Moscow and thousands of tourists and pilgrims daily file past the catafalque, where lies the leader of the first proletarian revolution. But the very fact that the features show no pallor nor the limbs show no rigidity has caused rumors of the preservation of the body. Such rumors come easily in a land of superstition. Historians tell us that the body of the False Dimitri, commonly known as the False Dimitri, after he was murdered, his naked body was dumped on a table standing in the middle of the street. Three days later, on the third night, a thin blue flame hovered over it. The phenomenon, probably caused by the burning of the body, was taken for a miracle. The body was buried, but a flame hovered over the grave. Afterward the grave was opened and the body was gone. The body was buried again, the grave was opened once more at the beatification of Dimitri. On that occasion a crowd of people gathered from the body were told. The holiness of the dead czar depended on finding his body intact and preserved. There was nothing but the case of a czar this was sufficient, and Dimitri was made a saint.

Nationalist Gayeties.

Near Wurzburg, in Germany, nationalist students recently erected ambulances outside the town and seized persons on their way to republican festivities that were being held there. From behind the ambulances they fired upon unsuspecting travelers, among whom were women. Some they flogged and three young girls had vitriol poured over their faces, that caused a real horror. The victims are still in the hospital raving with pain and horror. What a victory for the nationalists!

A Negroid Christ.

A bishop in the new orthodox negro church in New York says that Jesus was a negro, as was also his mother. In a religious procession held on Gotham streets sacred pictures of the Virgin Mary and the infant Jesus were carried about by a crowd of negroes. The bishop was a womanizer and child. The bishop very ingeniously supports his claims with part of Christ's genealogy, which he traces back to the son of Noah. Of course one needs to be slightly familiar with art galleries to know that different nationalities painted Christ with different features. In the hands of a blonde woman and in Italy she has all the characteristics of a dark Latin girl. Seldom is Mary pictured with Semitic features. And the new Byzantine Christ that hangs in the new Catholic Westminster cathedral in London is a blonde Slavonic type, reminiscent of the Russian orthodox iconology. Colonel Ingalls was not far wrong when he said that the peoples of the world created their gods in their own image. At least in so far as pictures are concerned this is true and the new negro church is no exception. The bishop in question claims apostolic succession. For that purpose he is digging in ancient records to find an early pope who might have had Arabic or negroid blood in him. There he may also succeed.

Wanderings of Emma Goldman.

Miss Emma Goldman is leaving Paris to go to London and study the labor administration of Ramsey MacDonald. She has just returned from Amsterdam, where she attended the anti-militarist world congress and where she told the Dutchmen that the best way to get rid of the highest possible pinnacle of it, in their country, was to get rid of the Dutchman. Ranned from the United States, disappointed in the communist experiment in Russia, she is now in England, and she is moving from land to land seeking an approach to Utopia. The Germans staged a riot when she wanted to tell them of the actual workings of sovietism and the dictatorship of the proletariat. But being essentially honest and sincere, she has not given up hopes and now wants to investigate how close the British labor government comes to her ideal. She will be disappointed to find that the British labor government is not so socialist. It is progressively liberal. He adheres to the second international and differs as widely from Kropotkin's anarchism, as Lenin's Bolshevism.

Wonder if Comparison Was With Andy Camp?

(From Mayevsky (Ga.) Enterprise.)

A short time ago two Pentecost ladies paid another sister member of the church in the country a visit. During their conversation one said the other's husband looked like a comic picture in The Atlanta Constitution. This caused them to forget their religion and unknown tongue talking, and began pulling each other's hair. Not belonging to the bobbed-hair society for a good effect, I think. Young people of the house interfered and soon had the doves of peace hovering over both, and, too, without any music, as each was too nervous to sing "There's Honey in the Rock," a song that never fails to bring about peace, love, happiness and friendship.

HEALTH TALKS

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

WHY ALL THIS IODINE?

The prevalence of thyroid enlargements (goitre) varies greatly in certain localities in Michigan only a few miles apart. Thus 26 per cent of persons examined in Mt. Clemens had thyroid enlargements. How come? Well, maybe it is a difference in the drinking water. The drinking water in Mt. Clemens was found to contain 25 parts of iodine per billion, whereas the drinking water in Romeo was found to contain not even a trace of iodine. Now if the health authorities would add a little iodine to the drinking water in Mt. Clemens the prevalence of goitre there would probably drop to a lower percentage, but in order to accomplish that at Romeo they would have to add a greater amount of iodine to the drinking water. Or the people of both communities might obtain an adequate iodine supply by using for table salt and in cooking the iodized salt which the Michigan state board of health recommends—such salt is made by a Michigan salt firm and may be purchased from grocers throughout the state territory. It looks, tastes and costs the same as ordinary free-running salt. It contains 0.02 per cent of sodium iodide. This means less than a grain and a half of sodium iodide in each pound of salt. Obviously no one could consume enough salt to get iodine from it. The iodine is in the food. Many individuals require more iodine than they can get from such salt. But persons using such iodized salt ordinarily should not take other forms of iodine unless by the direction of a physician.

The greatest number of cases of goitre among boys were found at about the age of 12 years. Children with simple goitre were found to have lower school grades than normal children. That might be ascribed to the slower general metabolism of the goitrous.

It has been shown in some surveys in Michigan that goitre is more prevalent in rural districts than in immediately adjacent urban districts, and this has been ascribed to the more general use of sea foods in the city. Nearly any kind of shellfish or fresh fish from the sea is a rich source of iodine. Canned smoked oysters, sea fish or shellfish is less likely to contain iodine.

Whether goitre and other pathological effects of shortage of iodine are due to the increase or whether they are due to be more common now that surveys are being made, are questions to both of which I should answer yes. I have a notion that the sections where goitre has prevailed to a striking extent are growing constantly poorer in iodine, which is dissolved out of the soil and carried down to the sea and apparently cannot get back to the soil again. At the same time we never quite appreciate how very common some of these minor maladies are until we begin to tabulate cases.

What effect has cocoa on a person who drinks three cups per day? (Mrs. P. G.)

Answer—It is a wholesome beverage, and in that quantity it would have only a good effect. I think young children should not take cocoa, but milk, because cocoa is a stimulant to the kidneys and therefore undesirable for children, and if cocoa is taken at meal time it gives a child a false sense of satiation which makes the child take less food than he should at the regular meal. Cocoa itself, without the milk or cream and sugar added, is an inferior food and remains too long in the stomach.

Agent Insists. An agent has called on me several times and has tried to persuade me to try Viavi as a sure cure for all female trouble, of which I believe I have suffered. She also claims it will remove tumors without surgical interference. (S. M. J.)

Answer—And probably it will wash the dishes and pick the beans and chop the kindlings. Well, agents should show 'em how. And Mr. Barnum showed 'em how. A woman who is so credulous as to imagine there is any such thing as "female trouble" ought to make a fine prospect for such an agent.

How can one mend a meerschaum pipe? If the material is genuine (natural) meerschaum, mending joint can be made by proceeding as follows: Clean a clove or two or garlic (the fresher the better) by removing all the outside hull or skin; throw into a little mortar, and mash to a paste. Rub this paste over each surface to be united and join quickly. Bring the parts as closely together as possible and fasten in this position. Have ready some boiling fresh milk; place the article in it and continue boiling for 30 minutes. Remove and let cool slowly. ITALIANS ASK DUTY ON IMPORTED SUGAR

Rome, August 8.—Italian sugar producers have asked the government to reestablish the duty on imported sugar which existed before May, 1923, because, they say, Italy now produces about 4,000,000 quintals of sugar more than she can consume. This sugar, the producers point out, is difficult to export because when taken to foreign markets, it costs more than the sugar from other sugar-producing countries.

TYSON WIDENS LEAD ON SENATOR SHIELDS

Memphis, Tenn., August 8.—With reports from 1,510 of the state's 2,118 precincts, General L. D. Tyson tonight maintained a lead of 11,530 votes over Senator John K. Shields, his nearest opponent in Thursday's democratic primary. Judge Nathan L. Bachman trailed 11,516 votes behind Senator Shields.

A tabulation of the returns showed the following vote:
Tyson, 59,038; Shields, 47,679; Bachman, 36,163.

This tabulation accounted for a total of 142,808 votes in 84 counties. No returns had been received at that hour from the other eleven counties in the state. Twenty counties had reported complete returns, while the vote in 40 or 50 others was believed to be virtually complete.

PEAY IS RENOMINATED.
Governor Austin Peay was renominated as the democratic candidate for governor with a plurality of 55,401 votes when R. N. Newby, while Mr. Peay was in the city, was renominated for railroad and public utilities commissioner by 16,772 votes over Sam E. Hill.

The vote for governor: Peay, 77,592; Hill, 22,191.
For railroad commissioner: Hannah, 48,695; Hill, 31,923.
For public utilities commissioner: Hill, 31,923.

ESKIDKE IS WINNER.
Virtually complete returns from the democratic congressional primary in the fourth district indicated the nomination of E. J. Eskidke, over a field of three opponents, including W. C. Salmon, incumbent, who was in second place with 2,000 votes less than Eskidke. C. W. Turner was third, and less than 200 votes behind Salmon.

With returns in from 194 precincts of 242 in the district, including Wayne, Humphreys and Dickson counties complete, the vote stood: Eskidke, 6,717; Salmon, 4,715; Turner, 4,579; Hall, 2,023.

Returns from the republican congressional contest in the first district were reported slowly, and the vote of only 47 precincts out of a total of 226 in the district had been tabulated. This tabulation showed the following vote: B. Carroll Reese, incumbent, 3,462; W. E. Jones, 2,814.

CONFERENCE ON DEBTS DISCUSSED BY DELEGATES.
London, August 8.—The allied delegates to the international conference this afternoon discussed the feasibility of holding a conference in Paris in the near future to discuss the question of international war debts.

The proposed conference would be entirely separate from the other Paris negotiations, which will concern themselves with the allocation of the reparations payments. Observers at the international conference believe it will be definitely decided to hold the debt discussions in Paris at an early date.

Americans Deny Presence.
It was reported that the American representatives to the conference had been present at the discussion of the proposed debt conference, but the Americans later denied that they had discussed the matter or had been present at such a discussion.

The Americans declared that the question was entirely beyond their competency, and that they would not even remain in the conference room after such an issue was under consideration.

U. S. WILL PARTICIPATE IN REPARATIONS PAYMENT.
Washington, August 8.—Announcement that the United States would participate officially in the conference to be held at Paris, for allocation of German reparations payments, was made at the White House Friday.

The conference will be held shortly after the conclusion of the allied meeting on the Dawes reparations plan in London. Ambassador Kellogg will be sent over from London as the representative of the United States. If Ambassador Herrick is not in Paris at the time of the meeting, it was said, and if Herrick is present, Kellogg likely will go over to assist him.

Colonel James A. Logan, who has been unofficial observer of the reparations commission for the United States, will also take part.

Of special interest to the United States at the meeting will be discussion of the $255,000,000 due from Germany as payment for the American army of occupation, as well as certain damages accruing to this country from Germany as the result of the war.

Letter of Arkwright.
President Arkwright notified Councilman White of the company's agreement to the plan in a letter in which he said that the company at present, because of decreased revenues occasioned by unregulated jitney competition, is unable to spend any more money on pavement.

Mr. Arkwright's letter follows: "This is to confirm the statement made to you orally this afternoon that during the year 1925, at the same time that the pavement on Ponce de Leon avenue, on both sides of the street railway right-of-way extending from Piedmont avenue to the Southern Railway crossing is repaved, this company will be willing to repair its track and the granite block paving between the two sides of Ponce de Leon avenue extending from Piedmont avenue to the Southern Railway crossing."

"The company is entirely unable to do this work this year. Its revenues are suffering exceedingly large decreases, and each month larger decreases are being reported. The unregulated jitney operation on the streets of Atlanta."

Hanft Funds Now.
"In addition to the loss of revenue sustained, there has been placed upon it an unusually large burden of expense of street paving. The result is that it is without funds to do any further work, no matter how desirable such work may be. The street railroad believes that the public authorities of the city of Atlanta will not permit this condition to continue, inasmuch as it will make it impossible for the street railroad to keep on making the improvements which the public so greatly desires. We have sufficient faith that the existing conditions will be remedied so that we believe we are justified in agreeing to undertake next year the work above mentioned."

It was reported that the American representatives to the conference had been present at the discussion of the proposed debt conference, but the Americans later denied that they had discussed the matter or had been present at such a discussion.

The Americans declared that the question was entirely beyond their competency, and that they would not even remain in the conference room after such an issue was under consideration.

U. S. WILL PARTICIPATE IN REPARATIONS PAYMENT.
Washington, August 8.—Announcement that the United States would participate officially in the conference to be held at Paris, for allocation of German reparations payments, was made at the White House Friday.

The conference will be held shortly after the conclusion of the allied meeting on the Dawes reparations plan in London. Ambassador Kellogg will be sent over from London as the representative of the United States. If Ambassador Herrick is not in Paris at the time of the meeting, it was said, and if Herrick is present, Kellogg likely will go over to assist him.

Colonel James A. Logan, who has been unofficial observer of the reparations commission for the United States, will also take part.

Of special interest to the United States at the meeting will be discussion of the $255,000,000 due from Germany as payment for the American army of occupation, as well as certain damages accruing to this country from Germany as the result of the war.

This is the first time that the company's right-of-way will not be tested in the courts and no legal steps will have to be taken to secure the company's cooperation in the improvement. Either the baby bond or the easement plan will be followed by the city.

Letter of Arkwright.
President Arkwright notified Councilman White of the company's agreement to the plan in a letter in which he said that the company at present, because of decreased revenues occasioned by unregulated jitney competition, is unable to spend any more money on pavement.

The company has sufficient faith that "existing conditions" will be remedied so that an agreement to undertake the street on both sides of the tracks from Piedmont avenue to the Southern Railway tracks.

Mr. Arkwright's letter follows: "This is to confirm the statement made to you orally this afternoon that during the year 1925, at the same time that the pavement on Ponce de Leon avenue, on both sides of the street railway right-of-way extending from Piedmont avenue to the Southern Railway crossing is repaved, this company will be willing to repair its track and the granite block paving between the two sides of Ponce de Leon avenue extending from Piedmont avenue to the Southern Railway crossing."

"The company is entirely unable to do this work this year. Its revenues are suffering exceedingly large decreases, and each month larger decreases are being reported. The unregulated jitney operation on the streets of Atlanta."

Hanft Funds Now.
"In addition to the loss of revenue sustained, there has been placed upon it an unusually large burden of expense of street paving. The result is that it is without funds to do any further work, no matter how desirable such work may be. The street railroad believes that the public authorities of the city of Atlanta will not permit this condition to continue, inasmuch as it will make it impossible for the street railroad to keep on making the improvements which the public so greatly desires. We have sufficient faith that the existing conditions will be remedied so that we believe we are justified in agreeing to undertake next year the work above mentioned."

CONFERENCE ON DEBTS DISCUSSED BY DELEGATES.
London, August 8.—The allied delegates to the international conference this afternoon discussed the feasibility of holding a conference in Paris in the near future to discuss the question of international war debts.

The proposed conference would be entirely separate from the other Paris negotiations, which will concern themselves with the allocation of the reparations payments. Observers at the international conference believe it will be definitely decided to hold the debt discussions in Paris at an early date.

Hunting.
I have trailed the jungle tiger,
I have tracked the grizzly bear,
I have dropped a leaping leopard
And I didn't turn a hair;
I have kept my wits about me,
As I'd have you wisely note,
Till this hunting expedition
Came along and got my goat.

Though I've faced a roaring lion
And a hippopotamus,
Though I've mingled with a cougar,
In a most exciting fuss,
Though I never have been rattled
Even by my raging spouse,
All my nerves have gone to pieces
In my hunting for a house.

He Knew His History.
The class was studying American orations. Just before it began on the famous "Give liberty or give me death," the teacher inquired: "Who was Patrick Henry?"
Several students tried, but made a mere stuttering job out of it. One little fellow continued to shake his hand, and kept jumping up and down. Finally the teacher nodded for him to answer.
Standing out in the aisles and fastening his hands behind him, he said: "Patrick Henry was born in Virginia. He used to do nothing but hunt and fish, and his mother and father said that he would never be any count. By and by he married a widow who had seven children. Then he went to the Virginia legislature and said: 'Give me liberty or give me death.'"

White Fang

BY JACK LONDON

The bulging back of Cherokee's neck was the only portion of his body that White Fang's teeth could reach. He got hold toward the base where the neck comes out from the shoulders; but he did not know the chewing method of fighting, nor were his jaws adapted to it. He spasmodically ripped and tore with his fangs for a space. Then a change in his position diverted him. The bulldog had managed to roll him over on his back, and still hanging on to his throat, was on top of him. Like a cat, White Fang bowed his hindquarters in, and, with the feet digging into his enemy's abdomen above him, he began to claw with long, tearing strokes. Cherokee might well have been disemboweled had he not quickly pivoted on his hips and sent his body off of White Fang's and at right angles to it.

Fair-Weather Wives

Hope Snatched Away.
The message which Marjorie received the following day, phoned up from the nearest telegraph station, was from her mother.
Mrs. Boice-Nevis, with her customary concern for the material things of life in the face of no matter what spiritual crisis, had wired: "See by papers that H. is to undergo operation. My best wishes for success and ultimate cure. Hope you have looked to our future provisions. Selwyn tells me he has made new will."
Marjorie, listening to the toneless voice of the operator droning out the words, flushed as vividly as if the girl were in the same room to witness her shame.

"Thank you," she said coldly at the conclusion of the message. "Yes, I have it all. No, I do not care to repeat it."
She hung up the receiver and, with burning face, went out on the terrace where Hollister lay in the sunshine. "Mother has just wired her good wishes," she said calmly, bending over a flowering rosebush to hide her face. "Everyone is kind," he said, smiling slightly. He had no illusions regarding his mother-in-law's fondness for him. His keen intuition could just about divine what was in Mrs. Boice-Nevis's message.

The sun was sinking low in the west, hovering over the topmost plumes of the distant pines as though it were loath to end this perfect June day.
"Tomorrow night—" said Hollister slowly, wondering if he should be alive to another sunset.
He didn't finish, only shrugged, and Marjorie, divining his thought, said quickly:
"It's getting chilly for you out here. I'll call James to wheel you indoors." In accordance with the doctor's orders, Hollister was put to bed early, having her near him, hearing her voice.
She hadn't seemed to hate him, of late. Certainly, she hadn't feared him.
He went to bed with that hope beckoning him on, sustaining him in the thought of the morrow.
But it was short-lived.
An hour later, he lay staring into the darkness, with hopeless, pain-filled eyes. The desire to live, which should have sustained him through the torturing ordeal to come, had left him suddenly.
And Marjorie was quite unaware that she was unwittingly the cause of it.
She had been about to retire, when the sound of a motor brought her to her feet, wondering. The doctors weren't due until tomorrow. A night visitor was unusual. Who—
She recognized the voices in the hall. Leila and Ivan!
"My dear," Leila was gushing emotionally, "we came to be with you at this terrible time. Ivan insisted on it. He says you were such a brick when he was ill."
Marjorie accepted Ivan's handclasp, read the sympathy in his eyes. Ivan, at least, was real, but Leila—
"Mother wanted to come too, but we dissuaded her for awhile, anyway," Leila was unwrapping herself from voluminous motor veils. "She may change her mind again and come after all. You know mother's determination," she laughed lightly. "And I'll take care of her when you're gone. They may drop in when they read the papers."
"Really, we're not running a hotel," remarked Marjorie, vexedly. "And this event is an operation, not a celebration."

"Oh, but Marjorie," Leila was reproachful, "everyone is so interested." "Hum" was Marjorie's noncommittal comment. The whole affair, to her mind, took on the aspect of vultures gathering hopefully around a sick animal.
"I'll tell you something else," Leila went on without lowering a voice that was audible to the man tossing restlessly on his bed of pain. "Tom Grosvenor is dashing on from Chicago. He's never given up hope of you, Cora Forester says. You've said you'd marry him when you're free, you know. And you will be free now, whichever way things turn out—whether Reed is cured, or—"
Her unfinished sentence was significant.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

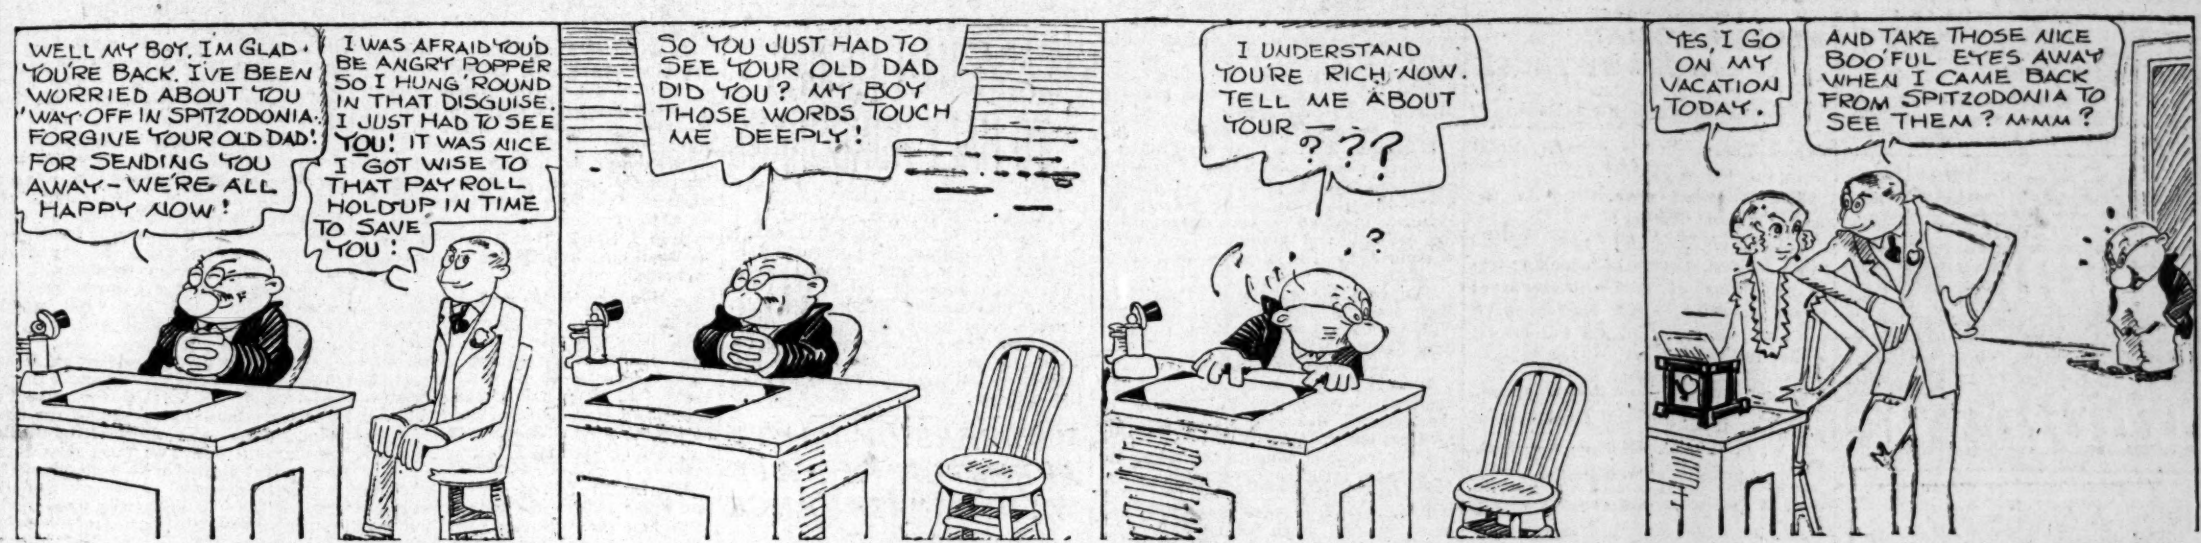

Change About.
Tablecloths and sheets should be folded crosswise occasionally. It will make them last longer.

A Safe Polish.
A splendid polish will be obtained on clean linoleum if linseed oil is rubbed into it. It will not make the floor slippery as do so many oilcloth polishes.

Something Good To Eat.
When making custard, using the stiffened whites on top, try sweetening the whites with a couple of spoonfuls of strawberry preserve. It adds a delicious flavor and makes the egg whites a pretty pink.

Trio of Attractive Cousins Feted at Many Social Affairs

Miss Lillian Le Conte has as her guests at her home on Piedmont avenue Miss Genevieve New and Miss Virginia Lyon, of Baltimore.

This trio of attractive cousins have been extensively entertained during the past week and they will continue to be feted at a number of parties that have been planned in their honor.

John Jacobs will entertain at the tea-dance at the Biltmore hotel this afternoon in honor of Miss Le Conte and her guests.

They will be complimented with a matinee party on Tuesday, at which Mrs. John Henry Dobbs will be hostess, to be followed by tea at the home of the hostess on Bonaventure avenue. On this occasion they will share honors with a group of lovely young visitors who are in the city.

Mrs. Julian Thomas will give a swimming party, to be followed by a picnic in compliment to her three attractive nieces, the date to be announced later.

William Akers was host at the dinner-dance at the Capital City club Thursday evening, complimenting

Miss Lillian Scruggs Is Honored at Many Social Affairs

Miss Lillian Scruggs, of Raleigh, N. C., who has been attending a house party given by Mrs. Harry Huber, at her home on Brookhaven drive, is being delightfully entertained as the guest of Mrs. W. E. Griffith at her home on Bonaventure avenue.

Among the many parties honoring this attractive out-of-town visitor was a bridge-luncheon at which Mrs. Mary B. Griffith entertained at her home on Friday morning.

The house was beautifully decorated with bright-colored garden flowers and a small group of the younger set was invited to meet Miss Scruggs on Saturday evening. Miss Scruggs will share honors with Miss Louise White, of Elizabeth City, N. C., the charming guest of Mrs. J. M. Keelin, Jr., at a buffet-supper at which Mrs. Keelin will entertain at her home on Huntington road.

Monday evening Miss Scruggs will be the central figure at a theater party given by Miss Florine Ennis.

Week-End Party To Be Entertained At Lakemont

Joseph Raine, Jr., will be host at a week-end house party at the summer home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph S. Raine, at Lakemont. The guests will motor to Lakemont on Saturday, returning to the city Tuesday. The party will be chaperoned by Mr. and Mrs. Raine.

Summer sports, including swimming, biking, canoeing, hydra-planing, motorizing and dancing, will feature the entertainment of the week-end. A number of parties have been planned which will include a group of lovely young girls who are admired by the city.

Mr. Raine's guests will include Miss Margaret Elder, Miss Margaret McArthur, Miss Billie Aiken, of Brunswick; Mary Lynn Brodgon, of Palm Beach, Fla., and John Hiltzner.

Mrs. Mullinax Is Hostess At Party for Mrs. Cook

A delightful social event of Friday afternoon was the bridge party at which Mrs. Robert F. Mullinax entertained in honor of her sister, Mrs. Bliss Woodward Cook, at her home on Ponce de Leon avenue.

The tables for bridge were arranged in the hall and reception room, which were beautifully decorated with summer flowers in various shades.

The prizes were attractive novelties and Mrs. Cook, the guest of honor, was presented with a piece of lingerie.

Mrs. N. O. Symes and Mrs. Robert Davis assisted Mrs. Mullinax in entertaining.

Mrs. Mullinax received her guests wearing an attractive gown of flesh crepe de chine and Irish lace.

Tallulah School Campaign Begins With Enthusiasm

Filled with boundless enthusiasm and determination that the Tallulah Falls Industrial school shall fulfill its mission in the mountains and take to the boys and girls of those regions the opportunities so long withheld, more than 150 Atlanta clubwomen filled to overflowing the dining room of the Biltmore hotel Friday and pledged themselves to the success of the Greater Tallulah campaign.

From the midst of the group, Walter A. Sims gave the first $100 donation to the school fund until the last woman had filed from the luncheon room there was but one word on every woman's lips: "Success."

It was voiced by Mrs. Clifford Walker, wife of Georgia's governor and honorary chairman of the campaign; it was heralded in a splendid talk by Mrs. J. K. Otley, president of the board of trustees; it was sung by Mrs. T. Stevens, president of the Atlanta Federation and chairman of the drive; it was echoed by Mrs. B. M. Boykin, Mrs. Z. I. Fitzpatrick, Mrs. W. B. Price-Smith and others, and it was asked for by Miss Nannie Davis, principal of the school.

The luncheon was largely in honor of Miss Davis and four little pupils of the school. Miss Davis, who is the principal, said she brought with her not only the message that her school would spread but proof of its work as well.

In the eyes of the four girls she brought from the mountains there shone the answer to the cause.

"Help us move mountains," Miss Davis pleaded, "and we have a wonderful opportunity to do good. Right there in your mountains you have boys and girls of unstained Anglo-Saxon blood eager for the education that we can give them and capable of receiving it."

"They are the children who appeal to you and they are giving you the opportunity to help them. They look to you for these things. There isn't a child in that little school up there who doesn't breathe a prayer each night for her 'clubladies.' They know you and they love you and it is up to you to give them the chance."

Mrs. Otley said that she had been the press of Atlanta and the wonderful publicity given the campaign.

"Tell your men friends that the school is a permanent thing," Mrs. Otley advised. "Tell them that we have $25,000 invested in securities

Summer Visitor Is Honored at Informal Parties

One of the most delightful events among the younger set was the informal dancing party at which Miss Martha Eubanks entertained at the home of her parents, Dr. and Mrs. H. E. Eubanks, on Forrest street, Friday evening.

The lower floor was thrown open for dancing and the house was attractively decorated with a profusion of bright-colored garden flowers.

About fifty guests enjoyed Miss Eubanks' hospitality.

Miss Martha Eubanks was beautifully gowned in turquoise-blue crepe de chine.

Miss Elizabeth Eubanks was an attractive figure in tan crepe de chine.

Miss Holcombe was attired in a lovely gown of tan crepe and cream lace.

Miss Elizabeth Eubanks will entertain quite informally this morning at the East Lake Country club at a swimming party, to be followed by a luncheon for her attractive guest, Miss Holcombe, of Macon.

Miss Sallie Mae Nipper Is Feted Bride-Elect

Mrs. S. B. Chapman was hostess at a beautiful tea at the Atlanta Woman's club Friday afternoon in honor of Miss Sallie Mae Nipper, of Fayetteville, whose marriage will be an event of Wednesday, August 13, at the beautiful country home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Nipper.

The table was beautifully decorated with midsummer garden flowers.

Mrs. Chapman received her guests wearing a model of black satin trimmed with acme hand embroidery.

Miss Nipper wore orchid georgette with hat to match.

The guests included the wedding attendants.

Miss Irene McCollum was hostess at a bridge-tee at her home on Tuesday afternoon in honor of Miss Nipper. The guests were Misses Sallie Mae Nipper, Carol Arnold, Irene McCollum, Mary Lynn Brodgon, Mildred Seawright, Kate Culpepper, Carey Singleton, Bobbie Maddox, Ann Stevens, Jim Kitchens and Mrs. E. C. Seawright.

Lovely Visitors To Be Complimented By Mrs. J. H. Dobbs

One of the loveliest affairs of next week will be the matinee party at which Mrs. John Henry Dobbs will be hostess Tuesday afternoon at the Lyric theater, complimenting a group of lovely young girls who are admired by the city.

The matinee will be followed by supper at the home of the hostess on Bonaventure avenue.

The house guests of the occasion will be Miss Lillian Scruggs, of Raleigh, N. C., the attractive guest of Mrs. W. D. Griffith; Miss Louise Stockton, of Winston-Salem, N. C., who is the guest of Mrs. T. H. Brandon; Miss Genevieve New and Miss Virginia Lyon, both of Baltimore, who are spending some time with their cousin, Miss Lillian Le Conte, at her home on Piedmont avenue, and Miss Louise White, of Elizabeth City, N. C., who is visiting Mrs. J. M. Keelin, Jr.

Atlanta Colony in Asheville Takes Part in Many Sports

Atlanta's younger set has sent quite a delegation to Asheville to spend August or a part of it at Grove Park inn, and they are enjoying tennis and dancing at the country clubs, some are playing this week in the Carolina tennis championship matches, others in a golf tournament, and horseback riding takes many for rides in the mountains, the girls say in their jockey-style riding clothes.

Among the young people at the inn are Miss Mary Nelson and Miss Margaret Nelson, who arrived Monday with Mrs. H. P. Nelson, Miss Frances Ford who is with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James S. Floyd and Miss Frances Arnold, who accompanied her mother, Mrs. Reuben Arnold, are pretty visitors. Miss Mary Ballenger arrived Sunday with her father, Dr. E. G. Ballenger, and her aunt, Mrs. Mossley. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Owens joined Mr. and Mrs. Hugh T. Inman here on Monday.

Miss Erskine Jarnagin is with her mother, Mrs. W. C. Jarnagin.

Mrs. Norman Sharp Will Be Speaker

Mrs. Norman Sharp, president of the Atlanta Woman's club, has been invited as one of the speakers at the exercises of the laying of the cornerstone for the Old Ladies' Home next week and Mrs. Sharp anticipates this visit with much pleasure.

repaid by getting everything fresh and fine.

A committee will be appointed to assist Mrs. Sharp and the committee, Saturday, in showing the visitors around and seeing that they are nicely served and given advantages of the lowest prices on the various commodities.

Mrs. Trotti Is Luncheon Hostess

Mrs. Hugh Trotti entertained the Chatters' Bridge club at a luncheon on Friday in honor of Mrs. William Heins, a recent bride.

Garden flowers were used effectively to decorate the room in which the luncheon was served and the games played.

Invited to meet the honor guest were Mrs. Ed Park, Mrs. T. J. Day, Mrs. C. E. Brannon, Mrs. Davis Hall, Mrs. D. W. Stewart, Mrs. James Cameron, Mrs. Albert Nix, Mrs. Earl Chandler, Mrs. R. C. Adams, and little daughter, of Mobile, Ala., arrived in Atlanta on Tuesday, August 12, to visit Mr. and Mrs. Russell Patterson at their home on The Prado in Ansley Park. They will leave on the following Thursday for Lenoir to attend the marriage of Miss Mary Feltz Yow and Gillespie Adams, which will be an event of social prominence taking place Friday, August 15, at the home of the bride-elect's parents, Dr. and Mrs. Benjamin Yow.

Mrs. Shlne Fleetwood, of Tifton, is spending some time as the guest of her mother, Mrs. C. J. Daniel, at her home on Fourteenth street.

Miss Margarette Burnley is the guest of Miss Dora Ferrell in La Grange, Ga.

Mrs. David R. Wilder has returned from Rochester, Minn., where she spent two weeks. She stopped en route to Atlanta at Whiteville, Tenn., where she visited Mrs. C. M. Roberts.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. McCall, of Washington, D. C., are guests at the Biltmore hotel.

Miss Eleanor Stanford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Stanford, has returned from Nashville, Tenn., where she was the guest of Miss Mary Pharr, who returned with Miss Stanford to be her guest for the month of August.

Miss Mary Crouch and a party of friends are at Warm Springs for the week-end.

Thomas H. Scott left yesterday for Childress, Texas, to visit his mother, Mrs. A. T. Scott. From there he will go to Dallas, Tex., and spend a few days, returning to Atlanta by way of Chicago.

Mrs. R. N. Pelot, of Decatur, left yesterday for Savannah, where she will be the guest of her aunt, Mrs. J. T. Goodrum, for a month.

Mrs. Gordon Smith and sister, Miss Dorothy Bennett, and Miss Ruby Tally will leave Friday for Clayton, Ga., also visiting points of interest near there.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Edward Brogan, of Chattanooga, Tenn., are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Charles Luitz.

Mrs. Ellington Gives Lovely Bridge-Tea

A delightful event Thursday afternoon was the bridge-tee given by Mrs. Rouse Ellington at the East Lake Country club in honor of three visitors, Mrs. R. B. Darling and Mrs. C. C. Allardice, of New York, and Mrs. M. C. Mallard, of Greenville, S. C.

Prizes were presented to each of the honor guests and the top score and consolation winners.

Summer Visitors Entertained at Tea

The terrace of the Atlanta Biltmore will be the scene of many congenial parties this afternoon at the semi-weekly tea-dance.

Among those entertaining will be Miss Adrienne Bettey, of New York, who is the guest of Mrs. J. M. Keelin, Jr., at her home on Fourteenth street.

Those invited are Miss Mary Brent Whiteside, Mrs. Emma Garrett Boyd, Miss Mildred Cabanis, Mrs. Thomas S. Kennan, Miss Harriet Snook, Mrs. W. C. Jarnagin, Mrs. William Henry, Mrs. George Bettey, Mrs. William A. Speer and others.

Mrs. Lloyd Parks will entertain in honor of Miss Frances Cater, of Perry Ga., the guest of Miss Margaret Bennett at her home on Ashford drive, who has recently come to Atlanta from Rome, Ga., to make her home.

Invited to meet Miss Cater are Mrs. R. G. Ridley, Mrs. George L. Bell, Jr., Mrs. Joseph Winslow, Miss Viola Parks and Miss Margaret Bennett.

Others entertaining will be Mrs. Albert S. Adams, Mrs. Omar F. Elder, John L. Jacobs and A. R. Stewart.

Miss Daisy Hardaway To Be Honored

Miss Daisy Hardaway, of Luthersville, Ga., will arrive Sunday at the home of Miss Ellen Gordon at her home on North Jackson street.

Many parties have been planned in honor of this lovely summer visitor.

On Tuesday evening Miss Gordon will compliment her guest with an informal dinner-party and on Thursday afternoon she will again be hostess at a bridge-tee at her home in honor of Miss Hardaway.

Mrs. B. A. Gordon will entertain at a matinee party at the Lyric theater on Saturday, August 16, in compliment to her daughter and her guest.

A number of other parties will be given, the dates to be announced later.

Mothers' Class Holds Meeting

The regular business meeting of the Mothers' Class of St. Paul Sunday school was held recently in the class room. Business of importance was discussed and planned, after which a delightful social hour was spent. The next meeting will be held last Friday in September.

REMARKABLE RECOVERY OF MRS. SPINK

Gives Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Full Credit

Minnesota Junction, Wis.—"I was under treatment, but nothing seemed to help me, and I was run-down and so weak that I had to remain in bed much of the time and was like an invalid. I had pains in my abdomen and in the female organs, and my stomach bothered me. My husband saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised, thought it must be good, and brought it home to me and advised me to try it. After taking one bottle I was able to get out, and after six bottles I was doing my own work, which I hadn't been able to do for years. I have a new baby who is doing nicely, and I am still feeling better than I have for four years. The medicine is surely wonderful and a good thing to have in the house."—MRS. GEORGE SPINK, Minnesota Junction, Wisconsin.

A country-wide canvass of purchasers of the Compound reports 98 per cent. benefited.

Strib Meets Fitzsimmons In Macon on Labor Day

Macon, Ga., August 8.—(Special.) William Lawrence Stribling, uncrowned light-heavyweight champion of the world, will battle before his home folks here on Labor day.

Usher T. Windlett, acting as promoter for the local post of the American Legion, tonight authorized the announcement that the post will sponsor a 15-round battle between Stribling and young Bob Fitzsimmons, one of the leading light-heavyweight fighters in the game today.

Young Bob is the son of old Bob Fitzsimmons, a world champion, and one of the greatest fight game has ever produced.

The battle will be staged at Central City park on Labor day afternoon, and the American Legion yesterday started arrangements to seat between 10,000 to 15,000 spectators. It is conservatively figured that the fight will bring thousands of out-of-town people to Macon.

Central City park was obtained by the legion through the courtesy of the entertaining committee of the Macon Federation of Labor, which has the exclusive use of the park on that day.

Follows Berlenbach Fight.

Stribling will meet Fitzsimmons exactly four days after he fights Paul Berlenbach, the New York knockout novice. The two will meet in New York on August 27, at the Velodrome.

In training for paralyzing Paul Stribling will likewise train for his battle here with Fitzsimmons. After the Berlenbach fight he will double back to Macon for the Labor day event.

Windlett would not state what purse or what share the fighters would receive for their appearance. It is known that Fitzsimmons, being a member of the upper 16 of fighters, will get a large sum, while on the other hand Stribling's share, it is understood, will be rather a donation to the local post, the organization which gave him his initial start.

Recently the Striblings donated a large amount of money to be released from a verbal contract with the local post for a fight here. Their aim now is to further satisfy the war veterans and to pave the way for the erection of a permanent home for the legion.

Work on Stands Soon.

Work on the seating plans at Central City park will start immediately after the Macon Peaches play their last home game. A semi-circle stand will be erected, it is understood, connecting the bleachers on the right and the park grandstand on the left. In the middle of the bowl the ringside seats are to be placed.

The prices are to be conservative, the legion announced. While nothing official has been given out, it is understood that the post intends to charge $5.50 for ringside, $3 for grandstand and $1.50 for bleacher seats.

The legion athletic committee is now at work on making preliminary bouts and referee selections. These are to be announced later.

CHAMPS ENTER SEMI-FINALS AT CHICAGO

Chicago, August 8.—Three Chicagoans, including Edith Cummings, national title holder, and Miriam Burns, of Kansas City, defending champion, will play the semi-finals of the women's western golf championship at Onwentsia tomorrow as a result of four stormy rounds today at Shore Acres, where wind and rain, thunder and lightning and mud and water failed to force the victors for the most part to shoot worse than par. In fact, both Miss Cummings and Miss Burns were two under par on the first 9.

The western champion displayed fine golf in overcoming Virginia Wilson, of Chicago, 5 and 3. In spite of the Missouri player's fine 41 in a drizzling rain, her opponent managed to keep the match square to the tenth hole, shooting 45, and under par on the first 9, but with four pars and one birdie in a row, Miss Burns took five holes straight and became the victor on the 15th green.

The champion tomorrow will play Dorothy Klotz, of Chicago, who today put out her third successive champion by defeating Mrs. H. D. Sterrett, of Hutchinson, Kan., who in addition to being champion of Kansas, also holds the Missouri valley crown, having defeated Miss Burns in the final round of that event. Miss Klotz, in the first round eliminated Mrs. Elaine Rosenthal Rinehart, of Dallas, twice holder of the western title, 4 and 3, and in the second round overcame Mrs. F. C. Letts, who also has held the western title twice. Whether she can overcome the present western champion will depend on how well each can avoid the casual water and soggy spots of the Onwentsia links, which is still oozing from five days of rain.

The national champion, aside from Miss Burns, has played the best golf of any contender in the tournament and in fact at times has excelled the Missouriian. She qualified with 84, leading the field by several strokes, defeated Vera Gardner, of Chicago, 5 and 4, overcame Virginia Gittens, 5 and 4, and today, by scoring under par all the way, handily put out Mrs. Dave Gault, of Memphis, the national champion, for in defeating Mrs. Stewart Hanley, of Detroit, she took 95 strokes, including two holes in eight, while Mrs. Gault was over par on only two holes, one of which was played during the severest part of the storm.

Miss Cummings' opponent tomorrow, Mrs. Lee Mida, of Chicago, did not shoot so well today as the national champion, for in defeating Mrs. Stewart Hanley, of Detroit, she took 95 strokes, including two holes in eight, while Mrs. Mida was wild at times, getting into rough and ravines and tallying 51 strokes for the first half. She steadied at that point, however, and played the Michigan champion and came home in one over par to win two up.

Summaries of today's rounds:

Miriam Burns, Kansas City, defeated Virginia Wilson, 5 and 3; Dorothy Klotz, Chicago, defeated Mrs. H. D. Sterrett, Hutchinson, Kan., 3 and 2; Edith Cummings, Chicago, defeated Mrs. Dave Gault, Memphis, 5 and 3; Mrs. Lee Mida, Chicago, defeated Mrs. Stewart Hanley, Detroit, 2 up.

Mrs. Vaughn Spaulding and Bob Gardner won low prize in the mixed foursome this afternoon, both scoring 44-41-83 at Onwentsia, where the leading rounds of Skokie creek permitted play late in the day.

The approaching and putting contest was won by Miriam Burns, who required only eight strokes to sink three balls from a distance of 100 yards.

THREE ROWING England Is Excited Over RECORDS ARE SMASHED

London, August 8.—Everybody in Great Britain who knows anything about boxing, and a good many thousands who pretend they don't ordinarily take interest in athletic affairs, seem to be greatly excited over the 20-round bout which is to be fought tomorrow afternoon in the great Wembley stadium by Tom Gibbons, the American light-heavyweight, and Jack Bloomfield, the English boxer.

Already 70,000 seats are said to have been sold, an unprecedented number for a British fight, and the weather is good, and it is predicted it will be the newspaper prophets expect 100,000 persons in the stadium.

Gibbons, although he is 10 years older and three and a half inches shorter than the Briton, still remains the favorite in the betting. The odds on the American, however, which originally were as high as 3 to 1, have steadily shrunk the past two days.

One thing that has whipped interest in the bout to a pitch unknown to Bloomfield's hopes, the writer contends, is not so much in knocking out Gibbons—although he is credited with having a left punch of sufficient power to put over a finishing blow—but in his standing the American, which he expects to stand him in excellent stead, and if the battle goes the limit he believes he will have a opponent from the sound of the song and striving for a knockout before half of the 20 rounds have been fought.

Bloomfield's hopes, the writer contends, lie not so much in knocking out Gibbons—although he is credited with having a left punch of sufficient power to put over a finishing blow—but in his standing the American, which he expects to stand him in excellent stead, and if the battle goes the limit he believes he will have a opponent from the sound of the song and striving for a knockout before half of the 20 rounds have been fought.

The sport writers have been hailing Bloomfield as the potential rescuer of his country's sinking prestige in the ring, which some of the people seem to think is the only way to save the honor of Great Britain's sporting life. "My last word," he is quoted as having told one of the newspaper men this afternoon, "is that I will fight to my last gasp to retrieve Great Britain's prestige in heavyweight boxing."

Gibbons has refrained from boasting. While waiting today on the eve of the fight he issued a modest little statement, in which he said that he did not believe in belittling an opponent and praising himself. He was content to say that he was going to try to put an end to the punching in the early rounds of the battle.

British fight experts who have been watching the preparations of both men for the battle express the belief that Gibbons' best chance for victory will lie in carrying the fight to his opponent from the sound of the song and striving for a knockout before half of the 20 rounds have been fought.

Bloomfield's hopes, the writer contends, lie not so much in knocking out Gibbons—although he is credited with having a left punch of sufficient power to put over a finishing blow—but in his standing the American, which he expects to stand him in excellent stead, and if the battle goes the limit he believes he will have a opponent from the sound of the song and striving for a knockout before half of the 20 rounds have been fought.

THE WISDOM AND POWER OF GOD

(The following is issued by the Committee on Church Cooperation.)

"Silly—utterly silly—"

Said one, who over the phone gave the name of an army officer high in rank, when explaining our position in our article of last Saturday, we pointed to the way in which the proposed mobilization day must appear to Japan.

In the article it will be remembered we called attention to the opposition of Governor Bryan, of Nebraska, and others to the proposal to make of September 12 a mobilization day in which the strength of the United States should be paraded before the world.

Since the appearance of the article we have noted with gratification that Hon. John W. Davis, democratic nominee for president, is in complete accord with his running mate, Governor Bryan, in this matter, which is vital to all America.

We suggested, it will be recalled, that rather than our "manned fleet," the pierced hands of our Lord and Savior—that rather than our weapons, His cross should be held before all mankind.

Is this also "silly?"

Power and Wisdom.

As we ask the question we recall Paul saying:

"We preach Christ crucified, unto the Jews a stumbling block, and unto the Greeks foolishness; but unto them which are called, both Jews and Greeks, Christ the power of God and the wisdom of God."

And we recall Jesus saying:

"And I, if I be lifted up from the earth, will draw all men unto me."

And we recall Jesus saying:

"And He alone offers any hope of a way out of the morass of miseries in which humanity is writhing, meaning our millions already dead, whilst we flounder blindly toward another flood of war and blood."

Is it not the part of wisdom to heed His call and follow Him, rather than to listen to the same specious pleading which fastened militarism upon the necks of all Europe and plunged the unhappy continent into the maelstrom of hate and butchery, into which we were inevitably drawn?

Mobilization Days Abroad.

Prior to our outbreak, annually, Germany, France, Russia and other European countries used to parade their military might, their military power.

The traveler in France would see freight cars, marked with the number of horses and the number of men that the roads were piled and laid with the view to the mobilization of the armies. And every European man and boy on the continent knew just where the ports and wharves to which the battleships would begin to blare and the drums to roll.

The peoples, the mothers and fathers whose boys must be the "cannon fodder," when the call to arms does come, were induced to pay unconscionable taxes and to eat off the side walk before strutting officers upon the plea that their perfectly prepared military machines would prevent the coming of war.

But, instead of preventing, the very machines, perfectly prepared, plunged the whole world into a war whose horrors will reverberate down the ages until the end of time.

And it will be ever thus. Here and there may be born the semblance of a man who, because of a fear of physical suffering and death, will not fight.

Others, as we have seen, are the overwhelming majority of mankind of every race and color has been willing to run the risk of suffering and dying upon the field of battle.

And the greater the peril, the greater the willingness of many to dare it.

Others, because they do not fear physical pain.

Many fear more to live bearing the brand of a coward.

Others, as we have seen, are the overwhelming majority of mankind of every race and color has been willing to run the risk of suffering and dying upon the field of battle.

And the greater the peril, the greater the willingness of many to dare it.

IT HAPPENS EVERY DAY

When you reach into your pocket for your bunch of keys and all that you find is a good-sized hole and you feel about as helpless as though you had lost your clothes—

And you suddenly think that you can't drive your car home, because it's locked and the key is on the missing ring and you say a few forceful words under your breath—

And you have visions of having to get new keys made for the car and the office and the house and the garage and a lot of other things and you decide this is about the worst luck ever—

And then you phone a Lost ad to The Constitution, telling where you think you dropped the keys—

And the next morning a little boy comes into your office and says his father sent him to find out if "these are your keys," and you reach for them with one hand and for a dollar bill with the other—

Oh, Man, That's What You Call Service!
